At KYC360 we understand the unique challenges faced by insurance companies in today's fast-paced and highly regulated London market.

Our end-to-end platform helps insurance businesses with seamless onboarding of customers, screening and lifecycle risk management, all of which are vital for maintaining regulatory compliance, reducing risk and enhancing customer experience.

Key challenges of the industry include:

/ Complying with London Market regulations

Operating in the London Market requires adherence to specific regulations set out by the Lloyd's Market and other regulatory bodies. These regulations require robust KYC processes, effective screening measures and compliant onboarding procedures. You need technologies that align with these unique regulatory requirements.

/ Complex market relationships

Managing the complex relationships between brokers, underwriters, managing agents, syndicates and others isn't easy. Especially when it comes to ensuring accurate due diligence and identifying potential conflicts of interest. This requires advanced KYC and screening technologies tailored to the intricacies of the London market.

/ Effective market collaboration and data exchange

The London market thrives on collaboration and data exchange among its participants. Implementing technologies that facilitate secure and standardised data sharing, streamline document exchange and enable efficient collaboration between brokers, underwriters and other stakeholders, is essential for improving market efficiency, reducing friction and enhancing customer experience.
